PlanCom to hold hearing on 4 lane planlines for CV Road

May 8 was set as the date to re-open the matter of four lane plan lines for Carmel Valley Road from Middle School to Farm Center. At Wednesday's Planning Commission meeting, Carmel Valley PlanCom member Ed Marcucci made the motion to set the hearing.

According to Bruce McClain, County Road Commissioner, the proposed plan lines are the same as those which were rescinded by the Board of Supervisors in 1966. At that time, the supervisors were petitioned by numbers of Valley residents who were opposed to the lines which were originally set in 1964, and they were subsequently set aside.

Last year the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association took a poll of its members which showed about 70% support (out of a little over 500) for the four lane lines up to Farm Center. The same poll showed a majority in favor of extending the plan lines as far as Los Laureles Grade, but then the majority switched to opposition for four lane lines any further toward the Village.

The proposed plan lines are for a divided four lane highway following the present Carmel Valley Road with a minimum right of way of 110 feet, according to McClain.

Volunteers say thanks and please remember the Ball

The Carmel Valley Volunteer Firemen hope the children had a wonderful time at the Easter Egg Hunt last Sunday. As a matter of fact they hope the kids enjoyed it half as much as they did, putting it on.

Next big thing on the volunteers' agenda is the annual Firemen's Ball (this one strictly for grown-ups), to be held on Saturday, June 8, at the CV Golf and Country Club.

No leads on 13 burglaries in CV Village

No new leads have been uncovered on the series of burglaries that took place in Carmel Valley Village a week ago, according to Hap Thystrup of the Monterey County Sheriff's Department.

Offices on the second floor of the Valley Center building were broken into over the weekend of April 13-14, as well as Talbott Ties, The Pampered Hamper and Bob Lambert's Appliance Center. The burglary at Lambert's was discovered during the night, with the others found on Monday morning.

Offices of Dean Campbell, Bert Heckenlaible, Al Parker, Elizabeth Lerner (owner of the building), Fred Toole, Hayden and Smith (first names not available) were broken into by using a pry bar to force the bolt between the door and jam. Damage to the door jam at Jean Klech's Pampered Hamper was extensive, according to Thystrup.

In all 13 different offices were entered, but the amount of total loss was quite minimal.

Red Cross Blood Bank April 30

MRS. RALPH NEAL and her father, Dr. James Short, inspect her blood donor's card while she waits her turn to contribute blood at the CV drawing last October. She and her husband were taking time off from the Seventh Day Adventist school in Saigon where they have lived for 3 1/2 years. During the recent Tet offensive she and her husband cared for 700 refugees at the school of which they are the administrators. The next visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to Carmel Valley is scheduled for Tuesday, April 30. Appointments may be made by calling Mrs. Thomas McKiernon (659-2833) who is still hopeful of reaching her goal of 100 donors. (Photo by Jody Cooper)

CARMELO 4-H

By LINDA WILSON

On March 30 Mr. Ingram took a whole truckload of Carmelo 4-H Club members to Gonzales to participate in the County 4-H Demonstration Day. Each one of us came home with a Gold Seal (the top award) and a chance to compete in the Regional Demonstration Day on May 4 in Santa Maria.

Linda Wilson and Paul Ingram won gold seals for demonstrations in the livestock division while Robin Nielsen won hers in the activities division.

The others won a gold seal for their "Ode to Billy Joe" in the talent show. Marjorie Ingram sang, Billy Ingram played the guitar, and the actors were: Jimmy, Bobby, and Paul Ingram, John and Elizabeth Darch, Don, Nancy and Jenny Thornburg, Tim Cordrey and Wendy Hougland.

Three Carmelo members just got back from the Junior Cow Palace Show. They are Jacky Beck, Chris Halle and Peggy O'Reilley. Both Chris and Peggy had blue ribbon lambs, placed 1B and sold them for 35¢ a pound. Jacky also had a blue ribbon lamb, placed 1A superior and sold for 50¢ a pound. Jacky also placed fifth in showmanship.

Next Saturday, April 20, the livestock members of our club plan to meet at 10:30 a.m. at the Salinas Livestock Auction Yard for a tour of the yards and to see a livestock auction in progress. In May they will attend a sheep shearing.

Wake up! It's important!

Although not too many persons turned out for Dr. Joseph Noto's first Valley meeting of his Monterey County Landowners Organization, it was a beginning, according to him.

Whether you agree with Noto's campaign to change the means of communication between county government, planning bodies and the property owner, or whether you disagree, one very positive thought is ever present.

Noto wants to jolt the people who own the land into wakefullness.

He says that people have no right to complain if they sit by and let things happen. The combination of apathy and non-communication with county officials can be a deadly one. Too often the personal results of restrictive legilations are not really understood or applied to an immediate local situation until it's almost too late for individuals or groups to exert any influence, either pro or con.

An afternoon spent at a Planning Commission hearing can be a real eyeopener. More property owners should make the effort, if only to become familiar with the procedures.

If more persons had attended Noto's Thursday night meeting, more persons would have been horrified to hear of some of the restrictions that are in the planning stages for the county in general... and this means Carmel Valley, since we have no city government and fall under county restrictions.

Particularly disquieting were the comments of Carl Hooper of George Bestor Engineering Associates as he read from the proposed county ordinances regarding new road standards.

There is no doubt that Carmel Valley is going to develop in the future and some of the larger pieces of land will be broken up into homesites. Hooper said that under these regulations which will come before the Planning Commission on May 15, a hypothetical development of 100 homes could be made to provide an incredibly wide access road, plus straight city type curbs and gutters. By the proposed standards, Los Laureles Grade Road would not be adequate to serve these 100 homesites. His parting comment was that this type of regulation is bringing the city to everyone.

If you live in the country by choice, your choice can be threatened by the application of urban standards.

We feel that it behooves the individual to keep as aware as possible, whether he be a developer or just a homeowner. While the owner of a house on a minimum acre lot will not be affected on his own land (since he would not be subdividing or building access roads), he WOULD be affected by what he sees. And if he does not have enough interest in his surroundings to keep well informed, he certainly has no right tc gripe when a road scar appears on the hillside and ruins his view.

Carmel Valley has a long history of conservation and protection of its rights and physical attributes. In early days, life was not so hairy, nor was there the immediate possibility of extreme growth patterns. Now, vigilance is even more important so that our lovely Valley is not suddenly transormed into just another suburban community, mushrooming outside a city.

Everybody on the bandwagon — wake up and keep informed!

Gone with the wind

DISSEMINATING THE NEWS is the major responsibility of a newspaper, but the Tusitala, Robert Louis Stevenson School's student paper, really went overboard last week to spread their story across the countryside. (At least that's what we've been told.)

The faculty advisor had most of the copy for the upcoming issue with him, and while he was traveling back from San Francisco, a gust of wind caught the typewritten pages and blew them out of the car. Before he could stop the next issue of the Tusitala was informally delivered to the residents of Santa Clara County. Needless to say, the Stevenson paper publication date has been delayed this month.

SCHOOL NOTES

High School programs for next year

Student programming for next year at Carmel High is beginning this week.

Present 9th and 11th grade students will meet with the counselors in small groups to develop their program for 1968-69. Information about graduation and college entrance requirements will be included. Individual conferences with a counselor may be made by calling the counseling secretary, Mrs. Ross (624-1821), for an appointment.

Sophomores and their parents will be scheduled for individual half-hour conferences. Purpose will be to review the student's performance, interpret standardized test results, plan next year's program, and discuss future plans (e.g., college, work, armed service). An invitation to this meeting with a specified time will follow later.

The Rhyming Philosopher

Now the bright spring flowers and the fruit trees bloom
While the Easter styles show the fashion trend,
So it's fairly safe for one to assume
That whatever we see we can comprehend
Without misunderstanding by foe or friend;
While makes me wonder if reason by chance
Went berserk, or really did nature intend
An up-to-date man to wear lace on his pants?

What kind of a guy wears a ruffle-front shirt
With frills on the cuffs and a garland of beads,
Or a turtle-neck sweater from soup to dessert
While squiring a lady at elegant feeds?
For men with long tresses my heart really bleeds —
You can't tell the fellows from girls at a glance.
Whatever became of our masculine deeds
When what was once male now wears lace on his pants?

In this modern-day world with its problems unsolved,
We wonder what future the years will unfold.
And who'll be the leaders in mankind's advance —
Not surely those odd balls with lace on their pants!

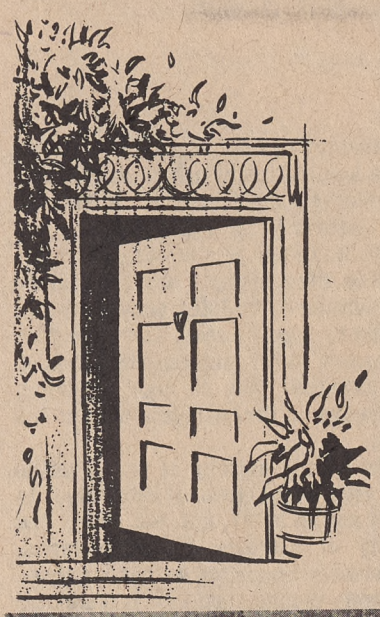
The Outlook opens the door to another interesting house

Eileen and Leroy Dufur have a house in a canyon



A FIREPLACE large enough to "crawl into" is one of the high points in the house recently constructed by Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Dufur in Carmel Valley. Mrs. Dufur enjoys the sitting height hearth of polished exposed aggregate while an oak fire burns merrily. The rock fireplace wall covers the whole side of the living room, complimented across the way with a full expanse of glass overlooking the canyon.

Can you imagine having lived in the old bathhouse at the foot of Ocean Avenue in Carmel as a child? One summer Eileen Dufur's aunt ran the concession which later was torn down and Eileen had a chance to live with her at the beach. She said it was a great place for kids, with a big lounge and huge stone fireplace and an ice cream and candy parlour.

Eileen is a native Californian and has lived in Carmel or the Valley since 1924 when her father came to work with M.J. Murphy (Valleyite Frank Murphy's father).

Although Leroy (Lee) is not a Californian by birth, he moved to Carmel before World War II. He was brought up in the Indian country around Aztec, N.M., where his father was the sheriff. He and Eileen both love the out-of-doors, go hunting in the back country and naturally would enjoy a home in an out-of-the-way country setting.

The Dufurs recently completed a new home in a secluded canyon in the Valley which brings together many of the wonderful elements of living in Northern California.

Like the Carmel beach house, their home embodies a gigantic stone fireplace which runs the entire length of one wall and is large enough so Eileen practically crawls into it to light the fire.

One of the most effective features of decor which is both practical and attractive is the polished exposed aggregate entry hall, which also runs along in front of the fireplace. Bright sunshine yellow and orange shag carpeting comes just up to this pebble pathway which carries the traffic to the bedroom wing. Beside saving wear and tear on the carpeting, this attractive textured walkway protects it from sparks which might fly out from the fire. The mammoth fireplace is completed with a raised sitting-type hearth of the same polished pebbles which runs the full length of the wall.

Another California feature is the open living room, dining room, kitchen complex which allows a free flow of traffic as well as communication.

Dining room, living room and master bedroom have sliding doors doors which open to a deck overlooking the tree-filled canyon in the rear of the home.

The low spreading oaks in the front yard appear to grow just up to the house and stop. Actually, Eileen said, she fought to keep as many branches as possible of the mushrooming old trees and they were cut off right at the point where the walls were set to rise.

Many of the cover pictures which The Outlook has featured recently have been done by Eileen who has a well equipped darkroom incorporated into her new house.

Another very practical idea was used in the kitchen. Eileen is quite short, so while the main counter is standard height, there are two adjacent counters, one on which the mixers are located and another with the stove and chopping block that are lower work areas making it much easier for her to prepare food. Yet they are not so low as to annoy a taller person.

The Dufurs designed the house together and Lee, who is a painter by trade, did a lot of the work on the house himself, along with contractor Dick Gayman. It was while he was completing one phase of the new home that he looked over toward Robles del Rio to see a column of smoke rising high above the trees. It was the house which he and Eileen were renting until their new one was finished. Needless to say, they moved into the canyon house earlier than they expected — of necessity.

Although the Upper Valley has grown tremendously since Eileen used to come up here to swim at Camp Stefani and Moore's pool, the seclusion which she and Lee have in their hideaway home belies the growth that has occured outside.

THE ROCK FIREPLACE WALL is an architectural feature of the exterior design of the Dufur house. Redwood rounds make a path to the garden with steps of the same wood circles leading to the driveway above the house. The low spreading oaks envelop the house and cut off wind which occasionally whips around the property. The deck at rear opens from the study.

MPC students will conduct own primary

Monterey Peninsula College students will join over 1,000 colleges and universities throughout the United States on April 23 and 24 in voting in "Choice '68," the first nationwide collegiate presidential primary.

Until Dr. Martin Luther King's recent death, the students were to have voted on 14 candidates — not only declared candidates, according to the Choice 68 board, but "many whom the students would like to see considered for the presidency."

The ballot lists, in alphabetical order: Fred Halstead, Mark O. Hatfield, Lyndon B. Johnson, Robert F. Kennedy, Dr. King, John V. Lindsay, Eugene J. McCarthy, Richard M. Nixon, Charles H. Percy, Ronald W. Reagan, Nelson A. Rockefeller, George W. Romney, Harold E. Stassen and George C. Wallace.

MPC, with colleges with enrollments numbering over five million students, will also vote on three referendum questions: what course of military action should the United States pursue in Vietnam? what course of action should the United States pursue in regards to the bombing of North Vietnam? and, in confronting the "urban crisis," which of the following should receive highest priority in government spending: education, job training and employment opportunities; housing, income subsidy, riot control and stricter law enforcement?

AFTER 200,000 MILES OF RAIN AND SNOW AND HEAT AND GLOOM OF NIGHT, BOTH THE MAILMAN AND THE MAIL TRUCK ARE STILL WORKING.

The mailman is 64-year-old Don Ferrin out of Chico, California.

The mail truck is a six-year-old Volvo 544 out of Gothenburg, Sweden.

We'd like to claim Don first bought a Volvo because it was tough enough to cope with the adverse conditions mailmen are traditionally expected to face. But we can't. He bought it because it was high enough to cope with the traditional rural mailbox.

Only as time went on did Don come to realize that a Volvo offered as much in length-of-service as it did in height-of-car.

To date, Don has driven this Volvo over 200,000 miles, most of them on rough, winding mountain roads.

He manages to average about 45 miles an hour on his route, even with around 100 stops and starts. Yet he still gets 26.5 miles to a gallon.

In the past six years there have been some repairs, naturally. But, as Don puts it, he hasn't been "keeping the repair man in groceries."

The only repair on the engine, for example, was a valve job at 144,000 miles. And there has been no work done on the four-speed transmission.

As a result, Don Ferrin's Volvo has become a legend in northern California. It just keeps going. And the mail keeps getting through.

True, anybody might dig up an impressive testimonial like this if they looked hard enough. Though in our case you don't have to look much farther to find another one. Just take another look at Don Ferrin.

The car we've been describing is Don's second Volvo. His first one (the one he bought because it was high) didn't do quite as well. Having had no experience with Volvos before, Don panicked and prematurely traded it for this one at 145,000 miles.

If you add it all up, Don Ferrin has driven two Volvos 345,000 miles, in ten years. And when asked if he gets sick and tired of driving the same car for so long, he simply says, "It's sort of like a favorite chair."

Unfortunately, all good things come to an end. And for Don Ferrin's legendary mail truck, the end can't be far away.

No doubt Don will soon find himself looking into a new Volvo—only to find that a number of things have changed.

Volvos aren't quite as high anymore. And they aren't quite as funny-looking. And they have a lot of new features that Don's car doesn't have.

But despite all these changes, nothing's really changed. A Volvo is still a Volvo. Which is why we felt compelled to equip the new Volvo with a six-digit odometer that goes up to 999,999 before it flips back to zero.

The day of some poor guy seeing a mere "45,000" on the odometer, and unwittingly buying himself a legend, will soon be gone.

Ingenious MPC staff members solve the money problem by going on the gold standard

MPC POLICE OFFICE Willard Stallworth, guards the gold while Joel Readio of the Engineering Department weighs it, under the watchful eye of Larry Miller, head of the Electronics Department. The two departments will share the monetary result of their "gold mining." (Photos by Owen Patrick)

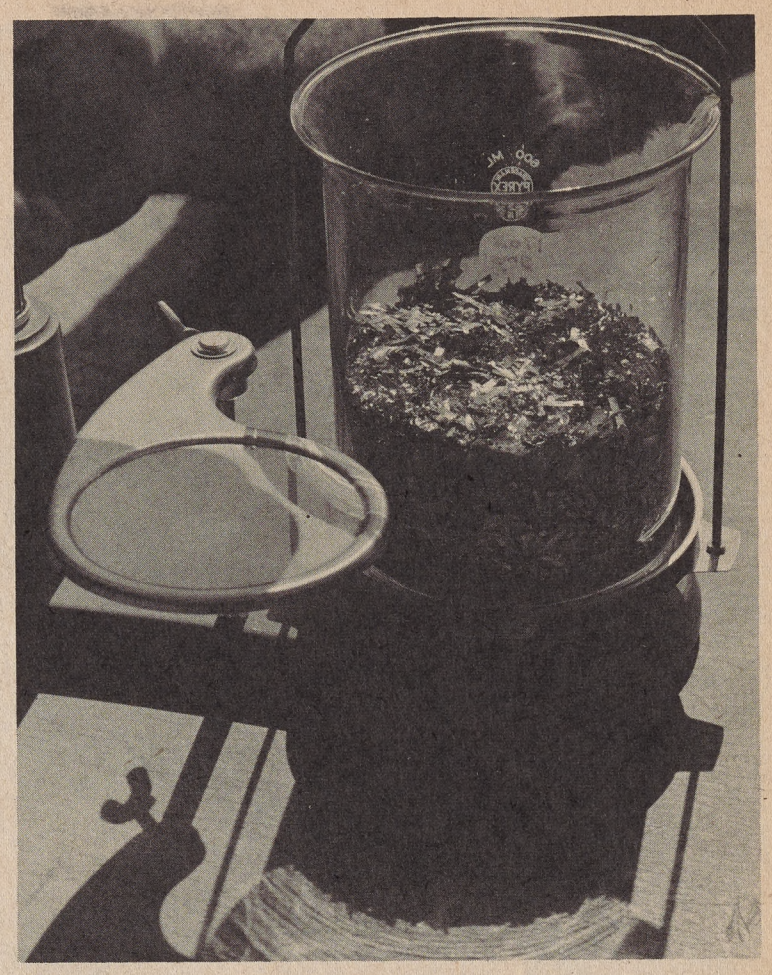
In the true California tradition of the gold miner, the heads of the Electronic and Engineering departments at Monterey Peninsula College are extending their depleted budgets by "mining gold."

Spurred on by their lack of monies for supplies and the current gold shortage, they found an ingenious means to supplement the budget.

Many surplus printed circuit boards are donated to the Electronics Department from firms in the city. Although a great many are used, there are also a lot left over. Among these were a number with gold plated circuits, so Valleyite Joel Readio, of the Engineering Department, teamed with Larry Miller, department head of Electronics and they removed the gold.

Joel has a background in mining. He soaked the boards in nitric acid which dissolved the copper underneath and freed the gold. They salvaged about three and a half ounces which will now be melted down and cast into an ingot. This they will present to Dr. John Baron, college business manager, and he will credit each department with half the loot. At the official rate of exchange, the value will run about $122.50.

A word from Readio... very few circuits are gold plated, so don't start tearing apart old radios... it probably won't net any of the coveted yellow stuff.



THREE AND A HALF OUNCES of gold were recovered from surplus printed circuit boards donated to the Electronics Department of MPC. By soaking the boards in nitric acid, the gold was freed and the net result is about $122.50. This will be credited to the two departments after it is presented to the college business manager, Dr. John Baron.

hc News from Hacienda Carmel

The annual Castlegar Tournament, staged at Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club by residents of Hacienda Carmel, was played during the past two weeks.

Winners of the low-ball tournament were George Salter and John Otterson, 3 down and 2 to go. Runners-up were Frank Beadle and Mrs. Hal Wright.

Stuart Mitchell of Carmel was guest speaker at the April luncheon of the Casa Lobos Club.

With the aid of color slides made during summer vacation trips, Mr. Mitchell retraced trails traveled by his grandmother enroute to California in 1850.

Caution at hospital

Visitors and patients driving to Community Hospital are urged to use caution because of heavy construction equipment now working there.

Preliminary construction work for Project '69, the plan to double the floor space of the hospital, is now under way.

Bulldozers are clearing the way for an expanded parking area and construction is progressing on enclosing fire stairs and landscaping the court on the east corner.

Festival of Grape Sunday, May 19

The annual Community Center wine tasting party will be held at Rancho Del Monte Country Club on Sunday, May 19 from 3-5 p.m.

The traditional "Festival of the Grape" will feature the same fine wines as in the past three years, and will be accompanied by delicious cheeses and bread.

A program of synchronized swimming by the Cypress Swim Club will again be a highlight this year.

Tickets will be available soon from Community Center board members and in local shops, according to Mrs. Rex Pryer, chairman of the event.

Volvos have always been pretty sensible.

Now Volvos are sensible and pretty.

The new Volvo 144 does everything that Volvos are famous for doing –except look like a Volvo.

What Volvos are famous for doing is lasting an average of 11 years in Sweden, where it's tough being a car.

Of course, we don't guarantee that the 144 will last 11 years in America. But we do know it's a Volvo. And over 95% of all the Volvos registered here in the last 11 years are still on the road.

So if styling is all that's been keeping you out of a car that lasts long enough to get you out from under car payments, you no longer have an excuse.

ROBERT S. GRAY

Valley poem sent to Carmel Business Assn.

The beauties of Carmel Valley are spotlighted in a poem sent to the Carmel Business Association by a Walnut Creek resident.

Kay Scott, manager of the Carmel Business Association, relayed the bit of nostalgia for Carmel Valley by the East Bay resident, Raymond H. Crummy of Walnut Creek. Here are his thoughts:

Carmel Valley

The sough of the pines
Sort of brings to mind,
The hills of Monterey,
The gray oaks too
And the lupine so blue
Make me think of another day.

The sound of doves
In the poplars above,
Also add to the tranquil look.
The hills so brown
With bees all around,
And the silvery babbling brook.

For this is the Valley
known as Carmel.
With orchards in summer array.
Do you wonder why
I heave a sigh
And think of Monterey.

OUTLOOK ON CARMEL

Domenici's is authentic and fun

It is a simple matter for Peninsula residents to drive but a few miles and find themselves in a restaurant that is so European, it is hard to believe. Host John Domenici greets each customer at the door of the tiny white farmhouse down by the Carmel River Inn, and it seems as if one is no longer on Highway 1, but some provincial town in Northern Italy.

In the manner of the romance countries, Domenici is the host with a flourish. Each person arriving feels as though this restaurant were existing only for him. Although there are menus, there are often specialties of the house which Domenici will suggest as he helps order from the Italian fare. Veal Picata with huge tender mushrooms, cannellone fit for a king and zabaione that is exquisite. This is how Domenici will describe it.

Most of the time his wife, Esther, is there with him and the intimate atmosphere is enhanced by her presence. Only dinners are served in the candlelit room.

Domenici explains that he got into the restaurant business because he enjoys food so much. Although he does not do any of the cooking himself he has trained each chef who has been with him so that the food is always just the way he wants it. Chef John de la Pez in tall white chef's hat is a proper addition to the European atmosphere and he prepares a cannellone as though it were a labour of love.

This is not the tomato sauce type of Italian cookery but the subtle food of Northern Italy.

The restaurant venture originally grew out of a wine business in St. Helena where they transformed the family home into an eating place some years ago. Specializing in imported wines, Domenici keeps a well-stocked wine cellar at the restaurant with a wide price range.

It was from St. Helena that they first visited Carmel about 20 years ago. It was about seven years ago that they moved here to open Domenici's at the River Inn.

Since then they have lived in Carmel Highlands. A daughter, Tina, was recently married and now lives in San Francisco. A son, Michael, is a student at University of Santa Clara.

Originally from Florence, Italy, Domenici arrived in the United States on the last boat that was allowed to leave before the war, in 1938. He and his father drove across the country from New York in a Rolls Royce. "Whew! What a big country," he reminisced, "... even in a Rolls Royce!"

JOHN DOMENICI

Every year or so, the Domenici's take a month off and go to Euope to visit with the many relatives still there and travel around on vacation, so the continental flavor of the restaurant is not allowed to grow stale.

When we asked which items on the menu were Domenici's favorites, he smacked his lips and murmured Veal Picata, cannellone... uum-m-m.

Now we know why he doesn't act as chef himself... he'd have a hard time sending food out to the customers... he'd want to keep it all in the kitchen to enjoy!

Garden Thoughts

by Salih Mehdy

of the Oleander Garden Shop

LICHEN

Lichen-covered rocks are sought by gardeners to landscape their gardens with. Lichens are really not composed of one plant, but two living together in a mutual life called "symbiotic structure." The lower part which is attached to the rock is a fungus which absorbs water and minerals and transmits some of those to the upper plant which is an algae. This algae is green and is able to produce carbohydrate just like other plants. In exchange for the water and minerals, it shares the food with the fungus. Lichen disintegrate the rocks chemically, very slowly, and eventually the rocks turn into soil.

PRESERVING POPPIES

Poppy flowers do not last much as cut flowers, but one exception to that is the Iceland poppy. Pick them early in the morning and dip the ends of their stems in boiling water for a few seconds. Their bright, gay colors are a treat for indoor decoration.

FERTILIZING LAWNS

When you fertilize a lawn, first estimate the area roughly and keep that figure written down somewhere. Then find out how many pounds of fertilizer you need. For instance, say your lawn is about 50' x 60'. The area is 3000 sq. ft. If you are using 10-10-5 formula fertilizer, the lawn needs 2 lbs. to 100 sq. ft. The total amount would then be 60 lbs. needed.

In order to avoid streaking the lawn, divide the fertilizer into two equal parts. (Streaking means that one long strip gets fertilizer while the adjacent area gets none, so the fertilized strip becomes green and lush, while next to it looks starved.) To avoid this, spread 30 lbs. with a spreader going from north to south and south to north. Then spread the other 30 lbs. going from a west to east and east to west direction.

CARE OF ROSES

Roses have to be fed and watered in order to bloom profusely. Since roses in general are subject to mildew and rust, watering should be done in the morning. Evening watering aggravates the disease situation. Also, roses must be sprayed with a fungicide such as phaltan or copper compound to keep mildew and rust under control.

EASTER LILIES

It is amazing to learn that about 7 1/2 million Easter lily bulbs are produced in coastal Northern California and Southern Oregon. This figure represents 75% of the lilies produced in the U.S. A great proportion of this crop is forced by specialized nurserymen for Easter blooming. Forcing these bulbs is an exacting process since plants must be in bloom just before the Easter holiday.

What makes this job more difficult is that the date of Easter varies each year from as early as March 21 to April 25. It falls on the Sunday which follows the full moon on the 21st of March. If no full moon occurs on the 21st of March, then Easter has to wait for another full moon to occur. This will take place anywhere from the 22nd of March to the 25th of April. So growers have to be aware of this fact and schedule their planting accordingly.

Another factor that has to be taken into consideration in forcing Easter lily bulbs is the period in which they are subjected to cooling. It has been demonstrated that a low temperature treatment induces flowering. This phenomenon is called "vernalization." Lily bulbs planted in October-November without forcing will bloom naturally in midsummer.

The Easter holiday reminds me of the month of Ramadan, the month of fasting for Moslems, during which no food or water is taken from sunrise to sunset. The date of its beginning is based on the movement of the moon. Since the lunar year is 10 days shorter than the solar year, it is always falling behind 10 days. So this month of fasting will occur during the four seasons of the year, during the average life span of a person.

FIRE BLIGHT

These days inspect your pyracantha, pear and apple trees for twigs turning brown, as though scorched by fire. This is caused by a bacterial disease called "fire blight." Cut the branch off 4"-5" below the visibly diseased part with a pruner. Dip the pruner in alcohol or any house disinfectant after each cut. The lack of this care might lead to the death of the plant. Burn the dead parts.

ESCALLONIA

Escallonia is an evergreen shrub or small tree with white, pin, or red flowers. It is clean-looking with shiny green leaves; on top of these merits it is hardy and went through the winter unscathed. For those who live near the coast, escallonia is a mainstay of the garden; it takes the coastal winds in stride. It can be trained as a multiple-stemmed small tree. There is one in the Presidio of Monterey of the "Appleblossom" variety which looks handsome all year and especially when in bloom. Escallonia makes a very practical screen for privacy or windbreak.

ANNA KRAUSE

Anna Krause, a former resident of Village Drive, died March 18 in a Peninsula hospital, following a long illness.

A retired professor from the University of California at Los Angeles, Miss Krause had traveled extensively. She was active in several Valley organizations. Her home until recently had been at San Luis and San Mateo in Carmel.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Florence Smiley of Carmel and a niece and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Salih Mehdy and children of Carmel Valley.

THIRD GRADERS AT ALL SAINTS' SCHOOL GET FIRST HAND

EARLY CALIFORI

California history is the standar for third graders, but teacher at All Saints' Episcopal Day Sch Valley, tries each year to make this hi thing for her students.

Several years ago the youngsters tac of making adobe bricks (in miniature) a them to construct an adobe dwelling.

This year they combined a bit of scie history and made candles... strictly i tradition.

First they gathered firewood on the sc down by the river. Two Valley women Powers and Mrs. Bob Getz donated big iron pots for them to use.

They dug fire pits and melted 20 lbs. of they added two pounds of salt peter and alum dissolved in one pint of water. Th simmer until the water had boiled away

IT TOOK THE 20 lbs. of lard quite a while to melt. In the meantime the youngsters found pieces of wood and tied their wicks on them in preparation for the final steps. (clockwise around the circle) Robert Cohn, Chris Hanson, Tom Allen, Kim Billado, Mike Godwin, John Dyer, Johnathon Richards, Miss Lyon and Carl Helser.

DURING THE LUNCH BREAK, water was boiled for yerba buena (herb) tea. The youngsters sweetened it with wild honey in the tradition of the California pioneers. Miss Lyon and Kim pour for Robert Cohn.

THE FARE FOR LUNCH was typically American, if not early American. The youngsters roasted hot dogs and marshmallows while they waited for the candles to be completed. (left to right) Kim, Ursula Rudolph, John Harder, Miss Lyon and Carl Helser who made the most of his time, dipping the wicks with one hand and cooking a hotdog with the other.

The children got branches on which to tie the wicks and then proceeded to dip them in the big kettles. It took about an hour and a half to coat the wicks sufficiently.

While this process was going on, the youngsters cooked lunches outside and topped it off with an early California beverage, yerba buena tea, sweeted with wild honey.

Most of Miss Lyon's students that day dressed for the part in Spanish hats, serapes, rebozas, coonskin hats and old fashioned pioneer women aprons.

When their candles were finally completed and tried out, the students couldn't help but have a vivid and personal picture of California's early settlers... and an idea of their daily toils and pleasures.

Ninth in national standings

Cypress swimmers are set back

The Cypress Swim Club suffered a setback in national ranking as it dropped to ninth place in team competition at the 1968 Senior National AAU Indoor Synchronized Swimming Championships last week in Bartlesville, Okla.

The local club placed seventh in both indoor and outdoor national AAU team championships last year and had hoped to move up in this year's competition, but early positions in the draw for both routine and stunts competition were blamed for the drop.

"We had some bad breaks," said coach Donn Squire, "but we'll be ready for them at the Outdoor Nationals at Santa Clara in July."

Cypress members of the ninth place team were Bonnie Banker, Lindy Doud, Kathy Neill, Jan and Sharon Roehl, Susie Selfridge and Judy Snyder.

The Pacific AAU continued to dominate in all events in the National Championships, however. Of the top ten positions, Pacific took all in solo competition, nine in duets, and six in team finals.

The Santa Clara Aquamaids scored an upset victory ending the reign the San Francisco Merionettes have held over the sport since 1961. The Aquamaids defeated the Merionettes in both duet and team events as well as overall points.

But San Francisco's Margo McGrath survived the onslaught to retain her title in solo and stunt competition with a lead of almost three points in routine and one-half point in stunts over challenger Kim Welshons of Santa Clara.

Peninsula residents will have an opportunity to see all of the champion solos, duets and teams when the Cypress Swim Club hosts the 1968 Pacific AAU Outdoor Synchronized Swimming Championships at MPC July 13 and 14.

Carmel High wipes out Watsonville in baseball, 11-6

Carmel High baseball boys bombed Watsonville 11-6 Saturday afternoon to take consolation honors at the Santa Cruz Tournament.

The Padres had lost their initial game by the close score of 5-3 to Soquel High Thursday.

Carmel will meet Hollister here Friday to resume Mission Trail Athletic League play.

Led by the outstanding pitching of Guy Preece, Carmel won a smashing 13-0 victory against San Jose's Leland High in the San Jose Lions' Easter Baseball Tournament Saturday before last, but lost 6-0 in the next round to Santa Clara Monday.

In Saturday's victory over Watsonville, Carmel's burst of strategic hitting in the 6th inning by Steve Hall, Mitch Kastros, Packy Porter and Malcolm Hall sewed up the game. Doubly guaranteeing it was another spat of slugging in the 9th by Porter, Hall and Jay Argust.

Treat Yourself To A SPRING WILDFLOWER TOUR

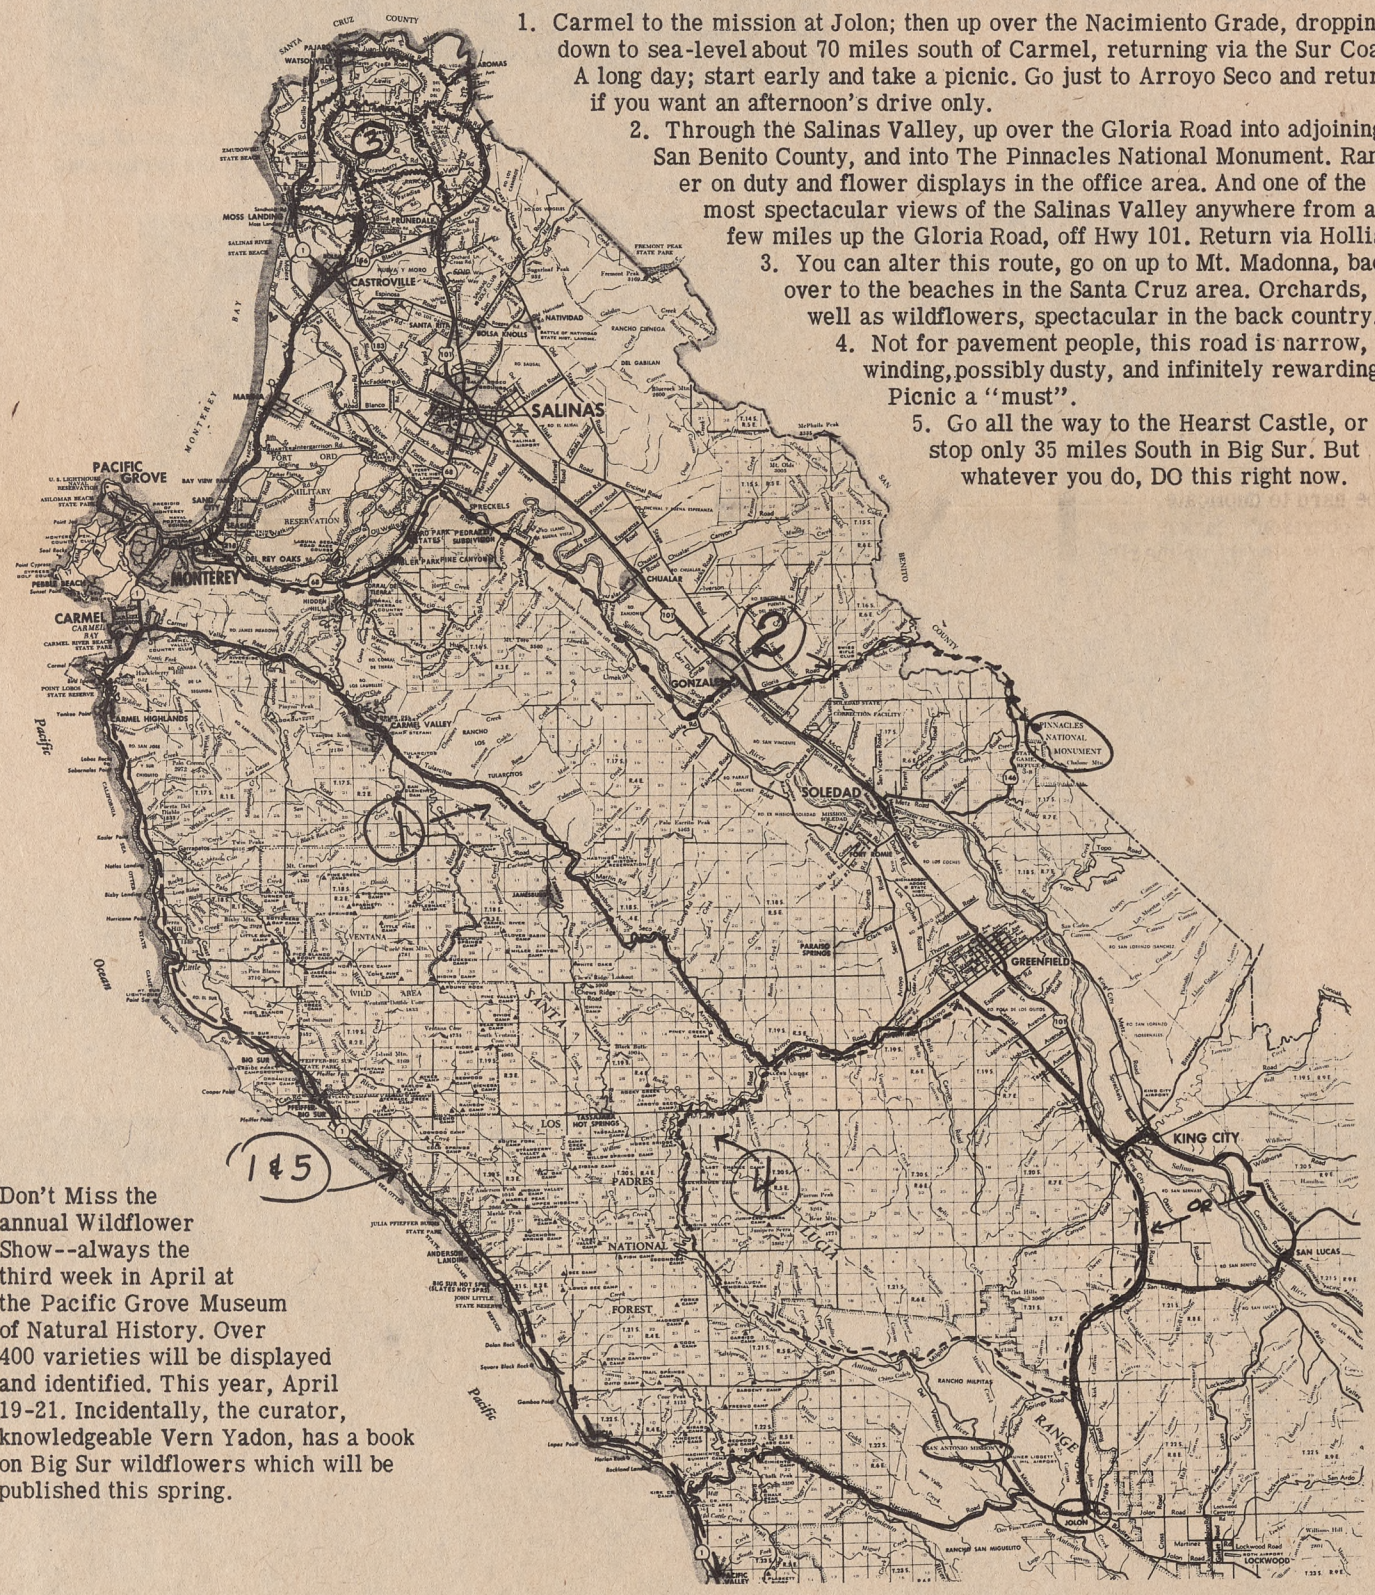
Monterey County is never lovelier than in its springtime dress of colorful wildflowers set against the incredible greens of the hills and valleys. The county has over 1700 separate varieties of wildflowers--did you know that nearly 200 of them were first found here, and 38 are not found anywhere else? We have so often been asked to mark maps for our friends that we have set out here several favorite routes, and may we also suggest that you take along one of these very fine and inexpensive handbooks to give you the added pleasure of identifying your favorites?

Howitt: Wildflowers of Monterey County, $1
Munz: Shore Wildflowers of California, $2.95
Munz: California Spring Wildflowers, $ 2.95

And for fireside reading when you return, do you know that wonderfully interesting book by our E.K. Balls, "Early Uses of California Plants"?

Suggested Routes

1. Carmel to the mission at Jolon; then up over the Nacimiento Grade, dropping down to sea-level about 70 miles south of Carmel, returning via the Sur Coast. A long day; start early and take a picnic. Go just to Arroyo Seco and return if you want an afternoon's drive only.
2. Through the Salinas Valley, up over the Gloria Road into adjoining San Benito County, and into The Pinnacles National Monument. Ranger on duty and flower displays in the office area. And one of the most spectacular views of the Salinas Valley anywhere from a few miles up the Gloria Road, off Hwy 101. Return via Hollister.
3. You can alter this route, go on up to Mt. Madonna, back over to the beaches in the Santa Cruz area. Orchards, as well as wildflowers, spectacular in the back country.
4. Not for pavement people, this road is narrow, winding, possibly dusty, and infinitely rewarding. Picnic a "must".
5. Go all the way to the Hearst Castle, or stop only 35 miles South in Big Sur. But whatever you do, DO this right now.



Don't Miss the annual Wildflower Show--always the third week in April at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History. Over 400 varieties will be displayed and identified. This year, April 19-21. Incidentally, the curator, knowledgeable Vern Yadon, has a book on Big Sur wildflowers which will be published this spring.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Balloons imprinted "Stacy" were the novel favors presented to guests at the luncheon celebrating the eighth birthday of Stacy Weber. During the afternoon the children enjoyed games followed by birthday cake and ice cream.

Honoring Stacy were Colleen Walsh, Cicki Harber, Matt Allaire, Mickey Cummings, and the celebrant's sister and brother, Kristi and Don. Stacy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Weber of Deer Meadow Pl.

NURSERY SCHOOL

Children enrolled in the Parent Nursery School have been taking advantage of our spring sunshine to add "Valley Visitations" to their busy schedule sheet. Recently they were given a tour of the Carmel Valley Fire Dept., where all of the equipment was explained and demonstrated for them.

Last week, accompanied by their director, Mrs. Don Johnson and Mrs. Norman Dubbs, and Mrs. Richard Hindman assisting, they walked to the Village Library. Mrs. Bob Ray explained the proper procedure of borrowing books for their parents to read to them.

A story session followed with the small fry sitting on the floor in front of the fireplace while Mrs. Ray read them two of the current favorites.

BEACH PARTY

A beach party was held on the Carmel beach Saturday by members of the Junior High Youth Group sponsored by the CV Community Chapel. Accompanied by their advisor, Mrs. Lucky Lawson, the young people spent an enjoyable day making sand castles, wading, and singing to guitar accompaniment.

Arriving with sack lunches were Karen Olmsted, Enid Rauber, Heidi Hattan, Terry Hendrix, Audrey Fleming, Carol Crockett, Sandi Harber, Tim Ray and Dirk Whitaker.

CUPCAKE PARTY

Ronnie Gayman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Gayman of Boronda Rd. celebrated his eighth birthday last week with a cupcake party after school.

Enjoying the games and refreshments were Jeff Johnson, Wes Farr, Ralph Verde, Brett Gayman, Pam Gayman, Billy Bugbee, Mark Mervine, Terry Rushmer, and Tricia Mervine.

BRIDGE CLUB

The Valley Bridge Club held their monthly masterpoint tournament Tuesday at the Community Center with the following awards made, to Mrs. Lois Ann Bethea and Maurice Stoney in first place; Mrs. Betty Leslie and Mrs. Mary Drobek in second place and Mrs. Trulee Ricketts and Mrs. Mary Angier in third.

ANNIVERSARY

Anniversary congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. H.F. Robertson of 89 Paso Hondo who celebrated their 21st milestone last weekend. The Robertsons attended the PG&E sponsored cooking demonstration at Tularcitos School and went home with an anniversary dinner that would be hard to duplicate.

Mr. Robertson's ticket was drawn for the elegant prime rib roast that was prepared by home economist Thelma Fahrenkrog, and then Mrs. Robertson held the lucky number for the large electric skillet in which to take home their roast and warm it for their anniversary dinner!

Assisting with the celebration were their children, Susie, Steve, Scott and Sharon. It was a double celebration since Sharon was capped Friday night upon completion of her probationary nurse's training at the San Jose Hospital.

BIRTHDAY LUNCH

Miss Elizabeth Ann Egli invited playmates to a luncheon recently at her home on Laurel Dr. celebrating her third birthday. The sundeck had been turned into a carousel following the circus theme right down to the birthday cake with a "Big Circus Top." Since it was one of our extremely warm days, the luncheon tables were moved down under the big shady oak trees.

Guests included Cindy Gibson, Carol Jennings, Lee Loban, Betsy Keith, and Ann Jennings. A special guest was Elizabeth's grandmother, Mrs. Edward Parsons, who enjoyed the afternoon with Mrs. George Jennings and Mrs. Gary Loban. Elizabeth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Linden Egli.

FORMER RESIDENTS

One of those special notes from a former resident, Audrey Klikovac brought news of still another Valley family, the John Lakes, who now reside in a lovely two story colonial home in Newport News, Va.

Edwinna and John added a fourth son to their family on the tenth of November. Master James Timothy Lake weighed 6 lbs. 15 oz. when he arrived at the Langley Air Force Base Hospital. It was the same weekend that President Johnson visited the base, but he did not tour the maternity ward!

Although the Lakes miss their Valley friends, they are enjoying the short driving distance to Washington, D.C. where their families live.

ANNIVERSARY TEA

Friends and neighbors of Rev. and Mrs. Don Johnson are cordially invited to an Anniversary Tea to be held in their honor April 21 between the hours of 3-5 at the Robles del Rio Lodge. Members of the Chapel Guild are sponsoring this tribute to the Valley couple who accepted the parish of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel ten years ago.

BIRTHS

Recent arrivals at the Community Hospital were Amy Marie, to Mr. and Mrs. George Gordan Murry of Carmel and James Robert, to Mr. and Mrs. James Richard Zoellin of Carmel Valley.

A son, Kevin Winters, born to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Voelker, Pebble Beach, March 18.

A daughter, Dana Elizabeth, born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kirk, Carmel, March 30.

A son, Jon David, born to Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Dommes, Carmel, April 2.

Notes from a Carmel cookbook collector

BY PHYLLIS JERVEY

What a treat was the Cherry Blossom Festival in San Francisco recently at the first Japanese Cultural and Trade Center. This architectural masterpiece took seven years in planning and construction. Just walking through the covered malls and concourses with the unique Bridge of Shops was a joy. We watched Japanese craftsmen demonstrate traditional arts and crafts, admired the genuine teahouse and beautiful rock garden and we relished a true Japanese meal in one of the splendid restaurants. All of which made my choice of cookbooks for this column today . . . yes . . . about a culinary tour of "Japanese Cuisine" by John D. Keys and published by Charles E. Tuttle of Tokyo and Vermont.

What makes this new cookbook so special is how practical and informative the recipes are. Besides being distinctive and truly authentic, each of the 42 dishes presented belongs to a particular region. The thumbnail sketches and spot mats provide a most delightful and exotic tasting trip.

In honor of cherry blossom time, let's turn to page 32 about Kyoto where the spirit of old Japan is maintained. These customs are also preserved in Kyoto's kitchens. Taking into mind that we on the Monterey Peninsula are now in the abalone (and just commencing) trout season, here are some samples of these delicacies, Japanese style. Let's start with

Sliced Abalone and Cucumber in whole lemons with radish-flavored vinegar

1 small can abalone or equivalent in fresh
1 medium cucumber
6 large lemons
3 tbsps. grated white or red radish
2 tbsps. cider vinegar
1 tsp. sugar; 1 tsp. soy sauce (Serves Six)

Slice a "lid" off one end of each lemon. Scoop out the pulp. If the lemons won't stand upright, with the open ends up, cut a thin slice off the other end to level them. Drain the canned abalone (pound the fresh or have your fish expert do this . . . tenderly); cut into dice. Pare cucumber and chop coarsely. Combine the two with grated radish, vinegar, sugar and soy. Season to taste, if necessary, with salt. Toss well, then stuff the lemons. Cover them with their lids and serve on small saucers with "oyster" or little ivory forks. A suave, but exciting, beginning followed by:

Whole Trout (stuffed with pea pods, mushrooms and scrambled eggs) broiled in bacon

4 medium trout
2 eggs
1/2 cup each, chopped mushrooms and Chinese pea pods; bacon (Serves four)

Slit trout open along the back, between head and tail, carefully removing bones and "insides." Sprinkle trout with salt. Beat the eggs and season lightly with salt. Add vegetables. Scramble mixture, but don't get dry. Remove to a separate dish and allow to cool. Stuff egg and vegetable mixture into each trout. Wrap them spirally with a strip of bacon, securing with toothpicks. Broil trout slowly until just done, turning once very carefully. Remove picks and have the most memorable taste thrill you've ever had. And those frozen rainbow trout we buy at the grocers are just right in case your fisherman comes back home empty-handed. There will be some de-thawing to do . . . but don't freeze him with an icy stare!

Advanced first aid course set

An advanced first aid course will begin at the Carmel Valley Firehouse on Tuesday, April 23. This is a 16 hour course, running from 7-9 p.m.

In order to attend persons must have a valid Red Cross standard first aid course or advanced course card.

There will be two-hour sessions on Tuesday and Thursday nights, with registration taking place on the evening of the 23rd. Classes will run until May 16.

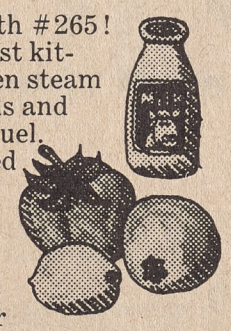
More Helpful Hints from PG&E: "Clip and Save"

8 SGE-T468

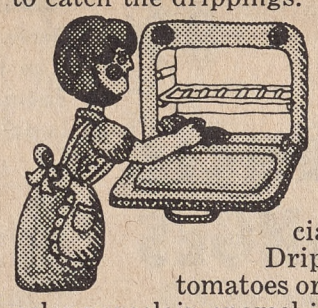
Old wives' tale #265:

"Cooking fuel causes kitchen grime."

Down the drain with #265! Steam's the cause of most kitchen grime. Grease-laden steam coats your ceilings, walls and curtains—not cooking fuel. So keep your pots covered while cooking and keep your kitchen cleaner.



And here's a tip from PG&E home economists to help keep your oven clean. When baking pies, cut the top crust a half inch larger than the pie plate. Tuck it under and scallop the edge. High scallops hold in the juice. But just in case, put a piece of slightly larger foil on the lower rack to catch the drippings.

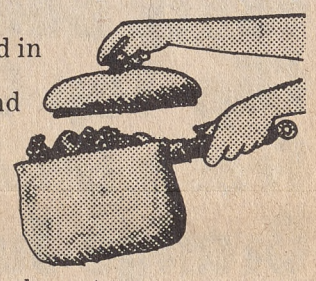


Another way to keep your range looking like new is to wipe up spills immediately, especially acid foods. Drippings of milk, tomatoes or fruit will discolor porcelain enamel if left too long.

Also, don't use scouring pads or harsh abrasives on porcelain. They make tiny scratches.

Also, you'll do a lot less scouring if you use a timer. It'll remind you when to turn down the heat. So, no more burning and spilling over.

Another way to prevent spillovers is to use a roomy pot. Gives moisture a chance to bubble up without going over the edge.



Interested in getting some new recipes and cooking tips? Come to a PG&E Cooking School. Expert Home Economists will show you how to manage your kitchen and have fun while doing it.

Watch for announcements in your local newspaper. It's free!

PG&E service is a bigger family bargain than ever — with six rate reductions in gas and electric rates in the past five years.

Trail & Saddle Club News

Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club will have a dinner for members and guests at the Carmel Valley Inn on Saturday, April 20. A no-host cocktail hour will precede the dinner which will be at 7:30 p.m.

A brief business meeting will take place at 6. For reservations, call Mrs. Getty Fairchild, 659-4376.

The horse show season has begun and the Saddle Club will have their first show on Sunday, May 12, for the junior members. It will be open to all juniors 17 and under (not only members).

The Saddle Club grounds are undergoing a facelifting under the chairmanship of Bob Angell and his many volunteers. A larger parking area has been cleared and the picnic area has been enlarged and reseeded.

English riding and jumping will be incorporated into the five award show series this summer for juniors. The jumps were donated by Mr. Strathmeyer. The first of these shows will be on Memorial Day, May 30.

The Doctor says: Literary prostitution on smoking?

by Dr. James Short

When it seems that there is complete agreement that tobacco smoking is causally related to lung cancer, bronchitis, emphysema, coronary heart attacks and others diseases, someone gives comfort to smokers and aid to the tobacco interests by saying, "It ain't so." Such an article appeared in the January number of True Magazine.

The weight of evidence against tobacco from various sources in many countries is now so great that it is irrefutable. The medical profession is so impressed that only about 25% of physicians are now said to be smokers while twenty years ago the majority smoked. But such evidence is bad for the tobacco business so something must be cooked up to becloud the evidence.

The True article was entitled, "To Smoke or Not to Smoke – That Is Still the Question." The writer dismisses all the evidence compiled by the U.S. Surgeon General and others and states, "At the moment, all we can say for sure is that the cause of cancer isn't known and that there is ababsolutely no proof that smoking causes human cancer."

Commenting on the article the Wall Street Journal states that the article was widely promoted by advertisements, and reprints were mailed to 600,000 "opinion makers" around the nation. Who was the writer? Ah, that is the question.

His name is Stanley Frank, an employee of a public relations firm used by The Tobacco Institute, Inc. The reprints and ads were paid for by another P.R. firm hired by the Tobacco Institute.

Another article entitled "Cigaret Cancer Link Is Bunk" was put out as written by a "Charles Golden," who turned out on investigation to be the same Stanley Frank. Frank denied authorship at first but finally confessed. "You've got me on that one," he said.

Other publications to take the stigma from tobacco as a potent killer are multiplying. The tobacco companies, who are said to spend hundreds of millions each year on tobacco advertising aren't going to be disturbed by facts so long as they can hire literaryprostitutes to promotetheir products. The public should be acutely aware that money is being made from the sale of tobacco whereas the work of health agencies is without profit, and judge the case accordingly.

Two jobs open at Navy School

The Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, has openings for a qualified photographer and a dental hygienist.

The salary range for the photographer, a GS-7 position, is $6,734 to $8,759 a year. Applicants must be able to use miniature, press, and studio cameras, and must be familiar with a wide variety of lenses, filters and films. Further information on the duties of the position may be obtained from the Civilian Personnel Office. Civil Service application forms (Form 57) will be accepted now.

The Dental Department has an immediate opening for a GS-5 dental hygienist with a starting salary of $5,565 to $7,239 a year. Qualifications include a minimum of one year's experience as a licensed dental hygienist, and a current license to practice in a state or territory of the United States, or the District of Columbia.

Interested applicants should contact the Civilian Personnel Office at the Naval Postgraduate School (646-2002).

CLUBS

● Lions Club

Lloyd Todd was elected president of the Carmel Valley Lions in the club's annual election last week. He will take office starting July 1, and he succeeds Richard McKenzie.

Other officers elected for the year 1968-69 include Tom Bordonaro, 1st vice president; Charles Gansel, 2nd vice president; Leroy Dufur, 3rd vice president; Jack Darch, secretary; Cliff Bolgard, treasurer; Phil Wright, Lion Tamer; and Art Fosso, Tail Twister.

Newly elected members of the Carmel Valley Lions Board of Directors are Dick Gayman, Warren Douglas and Mal Tavares.

In other club news it was announced that 20 members will attend the Lions Convention at Hoberg's Resort in May. As of tonight the club will hold its weekly Wednesday night meetings at Los Laureles Lodge.

● Alliance Francaise

Members of the Alliance Francaise of the Monterey Peninsula and their guests have been invited to meet Chancellor Samson B. Knoll at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies on Thursday, April 18 at 8 p.m., 425 Van Buren St.

The chancellor will conduct a "Causerie de la belle France" and show color slides.

The informal talk will be given in English but the new auditorium of the Institute now has instantaneous translation by pushing a button on one's chair. This is the only place at present which has the same method as used in the United Nations.

On April 24 at 2:30 p.m., the monthly French conversation tea will take place at the Officer's Club at the Presidio of Monterey with Mrs. Robert L. Stewart and Mrs. Andrew McFarland as co-hostesses.

● Arts Council

Honored guests at the second annual meeting of the Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey County will be Mrs. Robert Stanton, newly appointed member of the California Arts Commission and Mr. James Lyons, Executive Director of that Commission.

The meeting will be held in the Carmel Museum of Art on Dolores St. between Ocean and Seventh in Carmel at 8 p.m. tonight.

Pet of the week

THIS BASKETFUL didn't get delivered by the Easter Bunny. So someone will just have to come and get these bright-eyed pups who are waiting to be adopted.

All are younger than sprintime... just eight weeks old. One's a poodle-beagle mix; one's a Pekingese-terrier mix, female, and the other's a cocker mix, male. See them and others just as cuddly as the SPCA Animal Shelter, 2099 David Ave., New Monterey, any day except Thursday or Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. No charge for admiring and very little to take one home for keeps.

Vietnam view

A dramatic look at the Vietnam war was presented to Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club by Ron Melanson, a recently retired U.S. Marine captain and Valley resident. He showed slides to illustrate his talk.

A member of a Special Forces unit, he emphasized that the Vietnamese, especially in the country, will not be able to achieve peace and a way of life of their own in the near future because of the Viet Cong. Although natural resources give the country great potential, it will be many years before it can be developed, he added.

Kiwanians this Tuesday were scheduled to visit facilities of the sheriff's department in Salinas.
